

London.
June 29: 1826.

Dear Sir,
Late last evening I received about four from French post of 11th of instant and its various enclosures arrived and I there signed the proper papers.

I am glad you and I have the same opinion
- just to be to mouth and wish he had returned with you two or three to the place with the files at the Upper Lodge during the summer and next to the great expedition to Portsmouth and the attention of Mr. Waller and Lady Anne the subject being with the construction of the and together with the painters outside the by Anne rejoice with the whole of the world of the country the Elections are nearly over. Lord de Pateley must be a very happy man. The heat is now fine but will

 - some and I shall be glad to remove from this place made so hot by all these warm springs. At new - like and admirations. The prospect of plenty along these rivers is very promising and the people here say the autumn will be long and beautiful and the vintage will be very fine. The grapes are just coming into flower. I hope the campaign the Court and South Sea will not be put up again before the
 - comes. I suppose my daughter will write. I have not very news as the people here are so tired engaged with pleasure and their own health. The place is very full and very beautiful. Plenty of game the country over their dead and killed relations. I suppose your relatives will carry you up to Charles Street to see Sophia and her little girl. I wish I could be large her marriage till the baby she has made for. I hope he is still at Rushmore to be entertained at home which will take three months. I have not forgot parish concerns.

I will and ever believe me,

I am ever
Yours sincerely

J. O. P.
