

Frankfurt.

Sept: 16: 1826.

Dear Sir,

Yesterday brought me here four of the -stand and its various enclosures. I return the proper
-papers.

I believe I prefer near quitting it in having an entire
-none of the in the same. I thought a man need be neces-sary to a first. Permitting complimenting the paper in the
-lar Page and the Cabinet in the Dutch's of the
-However you will discharge man as whenever the various
-works are finished.

I consider this to be the last letter I shall write to you
-me. We leave this place and steadily pursue our jour-ney to Calais on 21 instant. I hope to be with you either the Second on the (Thurs) October to dinner - But weather is still equally fine but not near what and I am increasing my strength every day.

Adieu till we meet - and ever believe me

Yours sincerely
J. S.
Arthur

[Faint, mostly illegible cursive handwriting on aged, stained paper. The text is written in a dense, flowing script across several lines. A small, rectangular piece of paper is pasted onto the left side of the document, containing some faint, vertical handwriting.]

September 21 - 1826