

London
June 23. 1825.

Dear Sir,

Last night I received from you the B instant and its various enclosures. I have properly signed the usual papers.

I am glad the weather is so genial and that vegetation is so favourably advancing. Some the May has
- next has begun we are to hope for a very warm season.
- then. I trust the crops are plentiful.

You have done very well in giving the Fair and for poor Polycarpus & Mr. Polycarpus must have the my wish and the Campbells will have their share.
Our weather is fine and I am inclined to think the number will be tried for all purposes.

Advice and never believe me

Yours sincerely
W. Pitt Rivers
