Widow Jackson April 18th

My dear lady

I did not a minute to myself yes-tery before I left town to thank you for your note, & to say how sorry I am
 that you have a son
 ill with the measles, which I am afraid the others will catch too

I regret very much
not to see you &c.
I am here and wish with all my heart that the illness may be as slight as possible.

We have had also a great misery yet-
terday by hearing
of the death of Mrs. Eashin's little girl; the poor Mother

was quite prepared to learn this sad event
shears it with wonderful resignation & calmness. She quite astonishes me.
Of course she feels it deeply, but she knows it has become her duty now not to find way to her grief & to support
herself for the sake

after children & the unborn babe, which requires all her attention else. —

The King desires his best wishes to be given to you with mine & I beg you to believe me
ever, my dear lady

Yours truly
Francis
