

Admiralty.
 June 27: 1827.

My Dear Lord,
 Your Lordship's letter from Rome is come to hand and both the Duke and I myself are fully sensible of the delicate feelings of your amiable and excellent Countess. But at the same time as the Duke has many reasons for his conduct particularly at present - frequent
 - by some of his friends. However we are both so perfectly convinced of the sincere regard of the Countess of Gages for the Duke that we both request and desire Her Ladyship to keep all the distinctions and the intimacies with the Duke as if he continued both of the Privy Chamber and House

The same interest will continue between us and and Your Lordship and the Countess of the year that we shall see you both as usual at Bushy and Jussieu in this house. I ought to be remembered to Mr. Smith. The Duke has written me with me sincerely and kindly wishes to hear of you and miss to you there. I shall hear from you on your arrival in this country and ever remain,

My Dear Lord,

Yours most truly

W. Pitt
