

Off the Land's End.

Prince George, Sunday morning
June 20: 1779.

Sir,

I take the opportunity of a vessel sailing to England of writing this letter.

I am treated with the greatest kindness by Admiral Digby; & Thope, that, being instructed in navigation by the Admiral, in Religion, & other useful studies by Mr Majendie, I may be approved of by your Majesty, & the Queen.

I have received from General de Bude your Majesty's letter; it shall be my constant endeavour, to observe, ~~to observe~~ the affectionate directions, it contains.

Pray give my respects to the Queen, & my love to my brothers & sisters.

I am very much pleased, Sir, with this ~~new~~ situation in life; in which it is my resolution to shew myself,

your Majesty's affectionate & dutiful son,

William Henry.
