Beulah House.
Sunday night.
Eight o'Clock.

Dear Brother,

Mr. Henry having just left me for Windsor has requested me to inform you I am in such a state of weakness that if he had not seen me he would not have believe the case possible; still however for caution of the attack having been a bilious fever has induced Mr. Henry to put me under the course it will require my remaining here till the end of this month;

They were to read the commitments of some of the patriots to the Tower and hope a parliament will follow and all will in good time finish at the new Doop in the Old Bailey:

I return you my sincere thanks for your kind and generous offer. I shall of course pay you a visit the moment I am permitted. In the meantime God bless you and yours remain

My Dearest Brother,

Yours most affectionately and unwaveringly

William Pitt
