Dear Brother,

We yesterday made a better inspection than could have expected after all the noise that has been made about the loathing and the infamous conduct of the Taylor who never till yesterday morning sent the uniforms to London where the focus of sedition had been: we had six hundred and sixty in the Field besides the Cavalry the Officers sergeants and Drums: I had hope to have the whole settled in a few days and am therefore to request you will not think of presenting our Colours till then.

year night which is December the Fourth and on which day I shall hope to show you eight hundred clothes and fitted in the Pitt.

Ever believe me,

Dear Brother,

Yours affectionately

J. J. Williams
