Even.

My Dear Friend,

I am to acknowledge yours of Monday which has only this moment reached me:

W^m Jordan is becoming more moderate: I have a very few few letters from her and my answer I think will bring matters into a proper and favourable train: the next interview you have with Mr

Jordan I conceive will bring her mind to do every thing that is right: I have entreated Sophia and she is quite reconciled to my marriage: my accounts from Broadstairs are progressive in my favour and I think I shall hear from them every day: indeed I have a direct message from Miss Long to the Duke of York which you will deliver: she is most anxi-ous to get rid of Colonel ~~Smith~~ ~~Smith~~ and being infor-

-ed he is a good officer Miss Long trusts the Duke will employ him and so remove him from Broad-stairs: you will of course explain every thing to the Prince Regent: Lord Mayo is master of all circum-stances till Saturday last since which I have not any reason to complain: direct to me at the Dock Guard Chatham or I shall remain there from to-mor-row till Monday on which day I hope to be in town early: God bless you and ever believe me,

Dear Mr,

Yours most sincerely

W. Pitt
