Bushy House.

Feb. 15: 1826.

Written in the Morning.

Sir,

I have delayed till this moment writing in hopes of having been personally able to have returned my sincere thanks today in London to Your Majesty for the bounty I have so lately experienced. But the great stillness has prevented and I am therefore once more by letter to express my gratitude for the munificence Your Majesty has so kindly and so beautifully heaped upon me.

I am now anxious to have the various ar-rangements made without loss of time that Mr. [unclear] might see your [unclear]
-justly the receipts in full for the [unclear]
-said [unclear] [unclear] more when and when must be.

Sir,

Your Majesty's most affectionate and most dutiful Brother and Subject

Edw. [unclear]
