

St. James's.
Monday
Eight.

Dear Brother, Not having yet had an opportunity and being uncertain of seeing you tomorrow, I cannot delay any longer returning you my most sincere thanks for your truly kind and affectionate and most useful present that Mr. Fisher yesterday. I have from your repeated kindness to me fairly worn out both my expressions and my manner of writing to express my gratitude for your unbounded and constant attention to me and mine; you must therefore take the will for the deed and never believe that nothing but my life can extinguish the feelings of my heart which tell me,

Dearest Brother,

that I am most anxious shall be,
Yours most affectionately and unalterably
