

[1809]

Mrs. [unclear]

My dear Papa Many thanks for your kind letter Annals was not for these quarters of our home yesterday we went to go as far as Weymouth but she suffered so much pain in the side that we turned back about half way between Weymouth & that place & stopped 4 times to recover herself in going & coming home — The only part of the day she was languid & fatigued from the last night she had laid out towards evening got cheerful she speaks in the side I do not know thought proper to dry up — but had seen strange into the scatters which through it give much pain she is much pain in the side is so much greater that I do not think the scatters in the side give much trouble but when sleeping — she has had some sleep than the night before though much disturbed with pain in the will at different times — Dr. Phipps is very desirous we shall be able to leave this to tomorrow & as he you all the way with us I hope in God we may be able to get over as Lady George is well as myself shall certainly do nothing without his orders ~~now~~ ~~should~~ we should ever have anything to approach ourselves with & get in before God I may have the comfort of reading Gov. your accounts in the good —

My dear was very ill yesterday Dr. Phipps when he found was too thought her very ill indeed & that her last last night her breathing was staid & she has had some sleep —

Yours dutiful & affe
 Henry

sin H
 good
 comp
 good
 not p
 De
 he m
 N4
 safe
 not en
 relief
 you
 ever

[1809]

I should not just have with me in great distress as he fears it will be quite impossible to have any more for a great length of time he is looking out for a house, but at present even if he were to be therefore he he may have to remain in N.Y. still he can move here with safety if you will be kind as to write a letter to be sent to him on the subject it would be a great relief to his mind as we shall be gone before any answer can come to this

[Faint, illegible handwriting on aged paper]

Princess Mary
November 2. 1704