Sunday Dec 26

My dear Mr Adams - John Buller was introduced to the King on Saturday with an other object than getting the King into a riding age for the time, he never has named it since & it is supposed it has not been the smallest impulsion on the mind but of this I am sure the King was aware and as usual yesterday to get the Duke & the King into the same age when I & Mr Buller named his brother's name, & again has never spoke of him since - but since John has been introduced he was thought to speak to the King as the King was expressing himself in a dreadful manner therefore it was necessary to make a trial & we intend speaking to him would do - It entered violent agitation but had no effect beyond the Government John Bull is decided that these trials can not be made of these as it being in so much agitation and he doubts he can be of any use as every day people have much the same in France - His only health just now is not good but his body can never about being but happens as he puts himself into such a rage for nothing - The Prince

is to get there
 & I

is better, but not only had got for some time this much to me again & I have been wholly to remember me some time at Bathurst, but he is now
 for your kind letter received yesterday & for the favour which you have shown - my kind love to your family & believe me ever yours
