

My dear Mr Adams
 I thank you for your kind letter received some days ago & for all the kind expressions it contains & for entering so fully into my feelings about going to Jamaica &c - I am glad to find your own spirits are improved & that the time of your being back is every day nearer, but I am certain I hope William & Harri-ett will make you a good stay & that you will be enabled to give me time to change the air

x turn your thoughts a little from yourself - In the last 10 days the King has been under a Paroxysm & a very severe one it looks but so much as as to alarm us very much the days last week, but thank God it is now over x all alarm gone
by & the K much as he was before this attack, only much pallid more so than he usually is after a Paroxysm. His Paroxysm has been defiant & there all the others because the K was never quite out his sleep - which has prevented the Paroxysm a good deal - In an evening to some this week the Queen Augusta & we to dine with the Prince one day & with Dolly the next. I had never seen Dolly, Anne got I saw Gully is quite recovered & Anne Augusta's complexion has been at London. This last week she looks to me there & out of spents she has taken a little small cottage which she likes much, but she has not got out of

for some time. Got many - now per piece
any of her friends
with expense for that reason as travelling
expenses are dreadful
but that is her business & not mine added
to that I am I think Augusta might but
to forget her brother's
relations & connections
are so good that she might a little to consider
that & not let herself
down - Will you forgive me my dear Mr. Adams
for saying so, but I am I think it
all judged of Augusta
to love so much

for saying so, but

& she has at last decided
that as to her home
but I think highly she
will never remain
long at this place for
she already talks of leaving it of her own free will & for some I think a more pleasant place than here the cottage & told me she ought to see the advantages of leaving
it at any time
of her ^{mind} to make a long visit - ^{otherwise} I think much indeed would have been the choice of her heart if cause I had not been so much to give an opinion in my own
the other, but to give

I mention to my friend I think it not far from
reason as to her expenses are small but that is her benefit & but mind added
to that I am I think Augusta ought not
ought a little to consider
me my dear friend
for saying so, but
I am I think it
to her as much

leaving it of she goes for any time which I think a wise plan Eliza goes to the cottage & told her she
of the ~~best~~ ^{most} to make a long visit - Eliza I think would hardly wonder to see the choice of her best of course I have not presumed to give an opinion in any way to Mr. Pennell and the Misses Brown that is about the matter and Miss Denham - for God knows I don't ever talk Augusta I am of you

a word on the subject but I am sure you must agree with me - therefore I think perhaps a bad plan without she keeps herself up properly for I can not see Miss Brown's ~~and~~ necessity of the respectable people at home to send her ~~to~~ I certainly would not of she will go in leaving with Miss Pennell

Eliza does not see this part of really in view of the question - Charlotte is quite comfortable settled with her whole establishment at the dear house & I think is more quite satisfied she must go to see our brother & Eliza
all her quarters come down & are lodged she comes to us every other evening gaily dressed with us
my aff love to dear Frederic & Helen and Yours affectionately
G. W. W. W.
