~~I had intended to write you~~
My dear Mr. Pitt - I am quoted as having at my long silence but when I told you I had been here it is that every Government I have had to say I have been surprised by my bad side I am sure you will excuse me but having thought you long before for your kind letter I shall certainly receive your order to send you and ask his advice in the subject I have already spoke to Taylor thinking he is best suited for the service I must be he has an idea to be the King's or Regent's Aid de Camp depends upon how many you see there has been a lot in the Army the great war was a disadvantage

& can be more so much as he Camp. than the other in the time, & that made him (Doyler) respond as well as Camp for the King's part before the King's telling, & which as Doyler felt many officers who had distinguished themselves & had done a great deal of good duty abroad, & which his excellency about the King's side known things out of the regard in favour of an officer who he felt deserved it more Doyler doubtless gave second is of the standing to be that

 from
 & to
 these
 but
 Officer
 you
 low

with a friend. I have described them in a separate paper to better explain, but have been very ill this time with the ill of the very worst kind I am entreated - I have been of bad health since I arrived in London. I truly was delighted to put all into your hands. I am too to be sure I am a true
childish & please me
I am
Yours
M

My dear friend
I have from your containing the
things which
which be
before his
a friend be
