

June 6. 1823

June the 6th 1823

My dear Mr Adams -

I hope you are all well & enjoying this fine weather - I wish God I were able you the King is quite free of all complaints & going to the Cottage with the women on Sunday. The sort of shingles reports that about London are much to be feared - I do assure you nothing has been really the matter but that he has had a sort of very unpleasant attack the God clearing the inflammation his toe will not be attended to & we grow in which they out, but it had jumped when in one place that it found a little matter under the soil matter. He was Winged to appear a ground which played & beated down & that brought out a few that beated this day, & type the it quite come out

 he had a good deal of fun but for the last fortnight he usually was been gradually getting well
 of all these disruptions but they would well let let him out until his legs are quite strong

I saw
 W
 & p
 the
 I saw
 M
 I
 m
 of
 at
 C
 m
 S
 D
 W
 S
 P

June 6. 1823

I set out to leave this evening yesterday found some one happy & content & delighted to go to the stage in a day or two I saw Williams at the Annual Meeting but his unpleasantly & disagreeable small stomach did not meet his eye though
 I had all
 I could for me I have been suffering of late has at two lectures at the Polytechnic at the Colston Hall & has been going to a Public Hall for other lectures at the Polytechnic - Consequently left Amman & gone to Sturford for 6 weeks from to leave for the long &

Summer plans yet he was about four times the length of with whom I took that opportunity of seeing some to P.P. - to take at my expense which is being in the

July 6
1823

Handwritten text on the inside of the folded letter, including the name 'John Adams' and other illegible cursive script.

When I was in the
the first time I was
of the first time I was
of the first time I was
of the first time I was