

1809

My dear Mr Adams
You must look upon me quite as a stranger
for not having thanked you long before now
for your kind
letter, but really
Mr. Anselm's
dreadful illness &
all the necessity
in my suffering in his account of facts
bring often subject
out of my head
but indeed I have no time to write

1809

sent to my Brother
 the accounts of his & his way of it
 makes it quite a new duty —
 I shall be in London
 to day tomorrow
 to be obliged to leave
 very but delighted
 at the thoughts
 of seeing you
 if you get there in time take your
 of my and chance & call to day when I shall find a moment to see you if possible.

 in company of
 Wednesday or Thursday
 Friday morning
 Sunday morning

[Faint, mostly illegible handwriting on a folded piece of paper]

34
Mr James's Place

[Handwritten signature]

[Vertical handwritten text]