

12/ on a illness
at Paris

Dec 14th 1790

Dear Matilda's sweet pretty letter to Gouley this morning made us a little more comfortable about Your amiable Augusta God grant that she may be restored to us if Prayers have any thing to do with it I can assure my dearest Lady Charlotte that ^{more} were most ardently thrown up for her speedy recovery this morning at Church. I am afraid I did not say sufficient by all what Mama desired me to say. I think it right You should know she often expressed how much she felt for You and spoke of your dear little Angel in terms that would have overcome you indeed Papa ask often after You and constantly hears the accounts for You may easily imagine what he feels for You and Mr Fretling, knowing as You do, what a good Father he is. in short there is not any one in this house that is not very anxious about every thing belonging to You I only trust that You do.

did not neglect your own health I do beseech of You to take the care of Yourself. You dont, nor must never know, how uneasy I am about You and I wish I could be with You (my heart always is) for I think that I might be of some use to that dear little Girl. and that I could try to be of some to You, for I am any afraid your poor mind is so much agitated to receive much comfort at present.
I always loved Dr. John and I'm sure we ought, so that I'm glad You have him with You as I think it will be a comfort to have any body one has so much confidence in. Adieu dearest Lady My love to Mr & Mrs Fidings and believe ever Your affectionate

Friend
