Anne has been a little out of order which made me restrain her from taking the bitter. I beg you my dear Clayton to ask our friend, whether I did well or whether she ought to continue it.
 You will see by the letter she has a good appetite, & is well otherwise.
 Amely is much fill'd down by this last attack. the convulsions in her face have not yet quite left her I came from her at 10. She had slept well. She complains of a burning heat upon her lungs & the feavour which she had upon this fit is not quite gone of. I will make them put down in writing the course of the medicines that they would give her & then I will send it to your friend to put down his method, & they shall be given according to his direction in short I leave all to him under God, I wish I had done it 3 months selon ces sentiments, a la fin Je le remette tout a luy, que lon l'aura fait de 3 mois passer, Je vous prie ma chere Klothon de me mander, si anne doit prendre ces amerie, assurément
