My Dear Sir,

I can not resist writing you just one little line to say, how well your letters, by the Orderly, have been receiv'd by every one, ^{where} to whom they were address'd, & as I think, you will perceive by the numbers which I now enclose now preparing for you.
As for myself, I say nothing, for you are too well acquainted, with what my feelings & sentiments are, towards you, & long have been at all times, to render that, in the least necessary. Every one indeed, has felt, & believed most af-fectuately to you, upon the evan-gelium, & Mr. Charles, in truth, is, the very warmest & best of Brothers & of Friends. Vous êtes dans le chemin, dans la route de l'honneur et je suis sûr, que vous ne serez en rétrogradant jamais. God Bless You & Mr. Fountaine, & may all happiness ever attend you, & may Windsor Castle. Après le 1^{er} April 1824.

P.S. I hope you have not been making des Missions of every one & des Missions Day. Pray tell Mr. F. that he shall probably hear from me in the course of the summer, but at the very latest early on Saturday next.
