Lord Suffolk begs leave to accompany the inclosed Dea^r to Lord Stormont with a few Lines to Your Majesty. He cannot help looking upon the Swedish Busyness as very likely to end most disagreeably; and therefore humbly thinks that every measure & Precaution ought to be taken that has any chance to prevent the bad consequences which may be apprehended from from it. Much may depend upon the conduct of Lord Stormont when he arrives at Paris. Therefore it may not be improper to explain the present state of the Business to him before he goes there: and Lord Rochford forgives the inroad upon his Department which the Deat. is undoubtedly guilty of. But L. Suffolk earnestly beseeches Your Majesty to honour him with your commands if in any respect it is not conformable to Your Majesty's Pleasure, which he is particularly anxious to learn as he is not yet able to approach Your Majesty, and some nice Points are touch'd upon in the Dispatch.
