

The Duke made his
 N. H. H. the D. of Clarence Child died; in the Dec^r the last two papers marked B were marked by this sheet;
 the 5th page remained except 7 took place the same was all the same as the 5th page

Cont. of Duch. of 17352 Clarence

He the undersigned R. H. H. the Duke of Cambridge, sworn General of the King of Hanover, the R. H. H. S. Earl of Mar
 one of R. H. H. and R. H. H. for that part of the written Commission under relation of the R. H. H. of R. H. H. H. H. in that R. H. H. H. H. H.
 Extra. H. H. H. H. H. H. H. did remain at Hanover in the evening of the 19th of March concerning the continuation of the probability of the the death of the R. H. H. H. H.
 Clarence would be in premature labor that between 6 & 7 o'clock of the 19th of the 21st day of March 1759 the Earl of Mar having the direction of R. H. H. the D. of Clarence descended R. H. H. the D. of Cambridge the R. H. H. S. H. H. H. H. repair to the Furniture of in the City of Hanover, the Duke of N. H. H. the Duke of Clarence, the the attack, the Duke of Hanover the D. of Clarence, of which distant symptoms had appeared that the R. H. H. S. H. H. H. arrived there about 7 o'clock was immediately conducted conducted under by R. H. H. the D. of Cambridge to attend 17352.

the bed room looks out backward, it appeared ~~that two doors appeared~~ ~~at the end of the bed room~~
 The door was looking to the N. W. The D. of C. was to the N. E. A. J. H.
 Rue to close two doors, one leading from in viewing all the rooms having my own with the bed room in which the N. J. H. was in bed, up one piece of stairs; that it appeared that should be ~~from the room in the bed~~ ~~room upon a room in the~~ from the bed room to a large room in the front of the house another leading from the room adjacent to a room immediately contiguous to the bed room with the same large room. ~~It did not~~ that the door should stand in the large room there immediately contiguous to the bed room. That then the only access to the bed room would be either from that room or through a door on the other side of the bed room which I can see the door of the bed room ^{with the room in which the bed} room having been and open during the whole of our attendance. That whilst the N. J. H. was proceeding to place his feet on the stairs which N. J. H. the D. of C. carried forward immediately with N. J. H. the D. of C. came to the room in which we were to attend; that which in no calculation can have taken place in less than about two months before the time time, to carry it out when born into that custodian room in order to plunge it into a warm bath for the preservation of its life; that we found the child there, ^{that} we remained in this room, with the child in my ^{left} hand, until it had been a sufficient time, about three quarters of an hour, the warm bath for it to acquire sufficient strength enough to allow the sex being ascertained, and that we then ascertained by actual inspection that it was a female child; that its size and appearance were those of a child that ^{was} born ^{at} ^{the} ^{time} born considerably before the due time. That at nine o'clock of the same morning a surgeon, we still remaining at the Fountain hospital, in order to make ~~the~~ before this declaration the child was baptised in the English & Latin languages

East
West

W.C.
W.C. Room

Q

Red Room

R

where the child was carried to,
see following the sketch

(Q & R
from sketch above)

ms. p. of Clarence N. S. ^{Clarence's} ^{eminent} not having expected to be called to attend the Sp. of Clarence's eminent, no business minute was made on in the case of the Sp. of Cambridge; but this project of declaration was checked on acct. of the death of the (wid) contains a full account of all that occurred, when the narrative is carried down from the cathedral to the end of P. 4

(and)
the remaining part of the declaration sent being the 3^d page of the draft of the bill sent