

11 June 1811
Lord Fingall

Address of Catholics on the Irish Militia Bill

18127

13 Welbeck Street —
Tuesday June 11th 1811

Lord Fingall presents his Compliments to Colonel MacMahon could not have the honor of returning an answer to his note of last Sunday till he had an opportunity of consulting the noblemen and gentlemen of the catholic delegation in London by whom the Address was to be presented to His Royal Highness The Prince Regent — Lord Fingall and Mr Hay will have the honor of waiting on Colonel MacMahon with the Address, as soon as convenient, for His Royal Highness's acceptance and consideration as the Address bill, they understand, is to be brought into the House of Lords almost immediately —
