My Dear Sir

I have repeatedly been at your Door in hopes I have the pleasure of meeting you and personally delivering the enclosed letter from my best of wishes Sir Alexander - not until the day before yesterday that I called, did I know of your having returned to town, & hope with your health perfectly re-established - as general and to sail for Ceylon - I ventured no longer to delay letting you have my sons letter in the most anxious hopes of your answer being favorable to his expectations, trusting through your friendships, that His Royal Highness the Prince Regent will graciously be pleased to confer on my son, as a mark of His Majestys approbation so distinguished an Honor - and with your kind permission I request, when most perfectly convenient to yourself, that I may have the Honor to wait upon you, and deliver to you public proofs that my son is not without some claim to the selected dignity of Baronet.

I also wish extremely to see you, to express my warmest gratitude for your friendly assurances to Alexander of recalling to His Royal Highness the Prince Regents Humanity my truly melancholy situation, than the feet of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent with the most dutiful veneration and deepest gratitude for His past gracious benevolence and protection, which will remain impressed on my heart (lasting) as by assistance —

I remain always with Sincere esteem,

My dear Sir
Yours sincerely obliged Obedient Servant
