My Dear Colonel

I should have this day honoured by the receipt of your very kind letter. It is difficult for me to find terms equal to what I feel for His Royal Highness's & Prince Regent's most gracious Condescension to ^{honouring} me with so kind & ^{so} most highly flattering an attention. I must to the letter what I promised to trouble his Royal Highness with. I could not refrain from seizing the ^{first} opportunity, which my health, (which ^{was} I am beginning to be somewhat restored by the kind & skilful attendance of Doctor Blane) allowed me of presenting myself at York House to & admiration of all who have the happiness & honour of being known to His Royal Highness.

 I beg leave to inform you, my dear

Colonel, that the most highly flattering communication having been made to me by you for to show I entertain in common with all your friends, the highest regard & esteem, does not add a little to the gratification which it affords, & I request of you to ac-
