as one of His Royal Highness's confidential Secretaries, if the circumstances could be announced in the Gazette accordingly; - that is, simply announced without connecting it in any way with the Address. - Sir John having, as he informs me, written to you, may perhaps have mentioned the grounds on which he thought it right to solicit some mark of the Prince Regent's approbation of my Public conduct.

I trust you will have the goodness to pardon this liberty, & I have the honour to accuse you of your most obed<sup>t</sup> Serv<sup>t</sup>
