I trust you will excuse the liberty
I take in troubling you with a few lines.

I have known better than you, the Successes I have made in three Parliaments on the Circumstances attendant upon the last, with the Void Solacy of landing every Suble Assistance in my Power to the Princie Report; or my anxious Wishes for every thing that concerns His Royal

Highness's Welfare

Since we have had any conversation upon this subject I have the additional pleasure of an Infant Son to witness any mark of His Royal Highness's Favor.

I am sure you will believe it is the further possible from my wishes to be intrusive, and that I am well aware what claims & expectations must press on all sides, but having heard from my friends that a mention of them is intended soon to take

Since, and used by them, I leave it entirely to your goodness to send me to the Royal Highness the Duke, should he be pleased graciously to return the honor of an Irish Baron - anxious only to do any service of His Royal Highness. Patronage

Believe me my dear Sir Ever very truly Yours
