My dear Sir,

Upon turning the subject of our conversation of this morning in my mind I shall request before you to see the Duke of York to say it for this reason - that as you are so good as to put the matter in a way that amounts to no more than a suggestion that the thing would be gratefully received honourable and not to use application it would be immaterial that it should at the same time come from another quarter. and there is I feel something undecorous in the character of an appeal upon such a subject -

With ten thousand thanks for your kind reply
