August 10th 1813

Sir

Excuse the liberty I again take of addressing you & enclosing you letter which will recall to your mind your complaisance of having promised to interest yourself for Mr. Luffbridge who is still detained at Biscarrats Department one yard in the south of France — I have been so fortunate while at Paris to be ignorant every obstacle raised by the present Government & even have obtained their assent to my Husband's exchange, it now entirely lies with the English Govt his liberty. — I dare hope I shall not be left unrepaid with my country than I have been with a stranger one — I should have called in person but needed to intrude on your time —

I remain Sir
