My Dear Sir -

I send the book which I mentioned to you - The fear of unportuning His Royal Highness & the apprehension of giving importance to a subject of little consequence have together with my unfordable inclination made me keep it much too long - Of the Author I know nothing but what I have from himself in a visit he made me at the in a at Angsburyh He will however be gratified at any notice which His Royal Highness may deem to take of his offer of the book & a line from you at the Princes command acknowledging the receipt of it will satisfy him that I have fulfilled his commissions, of which I am entirely afraid that he begins to entertain doubts.

I am Dear Sir ever truly

Yours
Parrall Holland
