Sir B Bloomfield is honored with the Commands of the Prince Regent to signify to Mr Bellamy that His Royal Highness's Attention has been drawn by the progressive development of his new translation of the Bible, to contemplate the possible effect of its disturbing the established Faith in the Holy Writings; and His Royal Highness is counselled by His Spiritual Advisers to discontinue His Patronage of Mr Bellamy's Publication, upon the principle that Mr Bellamy has taken great and unwarranted liberties with the ^{authored} accredited Translation of the Bible; and that he presumes much on His Royal Highness's Protection.

Sir B. Bloomfield has it accordingly authorized is perhaps a better word. The Ab is aware that accredited is his own.

accordingly in command to acquaint Mr Bellamy that the amount of His Royal Highness's Sub-scription will be advanced to Mr Bellamy as an -indemnity for the expenses he may have incurred
-in the confidence of His Royal Highness's Patronage, but he will have to require of Mr Bellamy,
-the suppression of the Dedication to His Royal Highness, and the omission of His Royal Highness's Name as a Subscriber.
