The BRIGHTON HERALD (established upwards of TWENTY YEARS) is published every Saturday morning, and circulated throughout SUSSEX; in parts of SURREY, KENT, HAMPSHIRE, and other Counties in England; also in various districts of SCOTLAND, IRELAND, and WALES.—The seat of its publication (BRIGHTON) contains a population of above THIRTY THOUSAND, and, for a great part of the year, is the residence of the COURT, and the principal centre of the RANK and OPULENCE of the British Empire;—MERCHANTS, MANUFACTURERS, and CAPITALISTS in general, oftentimes assembling there, to form, in the midst of leisure and repose, new speculations, and schemes of enterprize.

It must, at once, be obvious, that a Newspaper, printed within a circle so eminently distinguished for PROPERTY, and possessing, as the BRIGHTON HERALD does, an extensive circulation, offers a most desirable MEDIUM OF PUBLICITY TO THE ADVERTISING TRADER, and the PROFESSIONAL MAN.

Agents in London for receiving Advertisements:—Messrs. NEWTON and Co., Warwick-square, Newgate-street; and MR. BARKER, 33, Fleet-street.

** Orders, transmitted direct to the Office, punctually attended to.

The Commissioners for His Majesty's Stamp Duties requiring prompt payment of the heavy impost on Newspapers and Advertisements, places me under the necessity (with the Printers of all other papers of extensive circulation) of sending your account; trusting it will meet with your earliest attention.

Your obliged humble Servant,

W. FLEET.
