My Lord North, Seeing the necessity of Recamping the Troops in Ireland in the same light as Lord Amhurst, I have directed Lord Weymouth to mention the measure at the Cabinet Dinner this day, that I consequence of the opinion formed Lord Weymouth may write to the Lord Lieutenant, the absolute Order for that measure and mention that the directions received from me were in consequence of the Advice offered unto me.

The thought of appointing the D. of Rutland Lord Lieutenant of Leicester here on his very handsome offer, is very wise and well timed, I should think that I cannot too soon confer this Mark of Approbation upon him
