As I think it right that your Majesty should in the present moment be informed of every thing that passes, I have sane to send you the enclosed letter, which I have just received from Mr Robinson. Your Majesty will see therein the language which Mr Rigby thinks proper to hold; whether all that he says is founded on Information or not, the Term of it is exactly what I expected. I say but little Credit for Lord North's apprehensions about the Affair; If the Provisions at present, it is with a view to obtain some Security against the Morans, which which he sees arising; I think it likely that when the Advocate comes to Town, he will not be the same past.

Your most Obedient

Dutyful Subject

L. Robinson
