My Dearest Son. I return You many thanks for the Intelligence Concerning Augustus, I shall not fail to acquaint the King of it & am sure He will be as glad as myself to know a reason for His Delay. I cannot however Blame Him for His Curiosity as such opportunities do not offer themselves frequently. I hope You are pleased with the Address of the Toulouse to Lord Hood, it makes one feel happy to belong to the English Nation, who says little & does much, for it is the first they has truly espoused the Cause of an Unfortunate Infant King. This Action is the Brightest Jewel in the Crown of England, that You & Your Posterity may ever see it shine with such Lustre is the Sincere wish of
