The Queen
2. July 1745.

My dearest Son. Well, Nothing can give greater Satisfaction in this World, than that of Acting right, & You have succeeded completely in this, by doing what You have done concerning the Princesses allowance. The King approves entirely of this as well as of the intended Dismissal of the Maids of Honor, & as to myself I feel completely happy that every thing relating to Her is settled in a manner, as not to allow even the severest Critic to attack You. You have at present many unpleasant matters to settle, but Y^r Determination of acting right, must alleviate those ^{painfull} ~~Unpleasant~~ moments & lead You to feel ~~the~~ sweet pleasure ~~to~~ ^{offer} Pain for such I think the Poet expresses himself, & that this saying may soon be verified in You is my sincere wish.

I have now to thank You for all Y^r kind & affectionate Expressions in Y^r Letter about me. Believe me Nobody can be more sincerely attached to You than myself & I do feel touch'd Unhappily that I have not the power ^{proving it more strongly by} of assisting You in Y^r present Distress, but I feel all the Inclination to do it, & as Madame Sevigné says Pourquoi faut-il sentir ce qu'on ne peut pas exprimer, — Pourquoi sentir l'Inclination pour faire le bien sans avoir le pouvoir d'en faire. That You know is my case. But my good wishes attend You every where, & I shall ever be desirous to deserve Y^r & ~~ever~~ return Y^r Love & affection.

The News of the Emigrants being safely landed at Gibraltar by seems to give new Spirits to every Body Heaven Grant that it may be attended with Success. We want something soon for the Season

The Preparations which are making abroad. I read of a great deal that is doing but Nothing is done.

The Orange Family left the Cas! Wednesday, & we have now Princess Sophia with Us. I believe till next Week, Old Cenhansen has also passed two Days at Windsor but does not appear in great spirits.

What do You say about Princess Louisa Ferdinands Match with Prince Godzevit, the People at Berlin are greatly displeas'd with the Match & I believe with reason, for the Young Prince is not the Eldest Son & will have only 25000. Crowns for His Fortune, He is but just 14 Years Old, & all the Letters say of His Mien is shortly this, Il joue bien du Violon, & a une jolie Figure. Cela sera d'ici de mon Coeur & Soupi de mon Amie.

My poor Eye which is very weak has proved evil till now by not disturbing me with Black whilst I have wrote thus far. but now it begins plaguing me, & I must finish. therefore come to a conclusion as I am determined that Nothing Black or Dark shall ever come between You & me, for I always must be cheerfull when I subscribe myself
