My dearest Son. I ~~am~~ am ~~truly~~ truly happy to hear that You are in a manner quite recovered & that You are so conformable to Y^r Physician Pray continue to follow His advice in keeping quiet a little longer, as the smallest check of the Distemper might occasion a relapse which in general does more mischief than one is aware of. The Fog of to Day is not very tempting for leaving a Warm room & the damp so piercing that none but those who must go out par devoir would quit their Beds. I hope when we meet to see You quite strong & well & that You will then be enabled to settle many things. The little dear Charlotte behaved very well notwithstanding Her being yolegued with Her Teeth & I fancy that a very exact attention to the Dyet prescribed for Her will prevent all Uneasiness about Her.

I meant to have wrote Yesterday but there was no possibility to find a moment for it even now. I am beset with Milliners, Jewellers, & Manuamakers, in a ^{such} manner ^{as} to make me write quite incoherently, which you must of course perceive, I will therefore come to a conclusion, & beg that you will let me know by one of the Stages how you do & to assure you how sincerely Tom

of House
