

The Prince of Wales

to

Lord Chancellor

Sturton

38225

My dear Lord,

(Copy)

Nothing but the fear of disturbing you more by coming to length to tell myself, than by sending my particular Friend & Secretary Mr. Trowhill to you prevents my getting into my Chair this moment, as it is upon a matter of the utmost importance not only to myself, who am peculiarly interested in it, but to the King his Family & Monarchy all together; that I send him to request of you to see him, & to converse with him, as he is empowered by me, & perfectly able to state, every even the minutest circumstances of the late negotiations with Administration respecting my affairs, which it has not been from want of inclination but from necessity

— 1780.

Relating to His M^{ty} Indisposition

towards yourself & other circumstances to be both he & I can explain to you, that I have not submitted them ever from the commencement of the business for your advice & consideration. I can only add the assurance I shall be in the after Gwynn's return, & remain, my Dear Lord, your ever sincere Friend.

George P.

Carlton House.

June 7. 3/4 past 7. P.M.

P.S. There is no question that you may not put,
& that he shall not answer -