Portland Place Jan. 26. 1791

The House sat so late that it was not possible for me to send your Majesty any account of the Debate. The L. of Richmond tried to embarrass it by calling for more Papers. L<sup>d</sup> President answered with great propriety and dignity something the Duke had said abt corrupt administrations &c. The Duke of Chandos spoke ably and <sup>with</sup> very strong approbation of the Dutch war. wishing that Ministers had upon all occasions acted with the same vigour. L<sup>ds</sup> Shelburne & Camden were less able but still more mischievous.

than usual. especially D<sup>r</sup> Canden who laboured to prove that the Emperess of Russia was now bound in Honour to join in the war against us.
