Winington, June 3^d 1810.

Sir

Knowing so thoroughly as I do the anxiety of your paternal affection, I received a double shock from the news of the horrid attempt upon the Duke of Cumberland; compre-hending at once what a torture the circumstances must have been to you feelings. Your Royal Highness will, I am confident, have given me credit for this sympathy; but the expressing it is a relief to my own heart. I trust in God that all alarm as to the consequences of the wound has perfectly subsided. May I venture, Sir, to expect that you will deign to mention to the Duke of Cumberland how deeply un-willing I have been to this shocking event. It cannot be presumed in me to offer that here the testimony when the sentiment is so universal.

With the truest devotion, I remain Sir, ever
Your Royal Highness's most obliged & most faithful servant
The Prince of Wales. Thine
