My dear Sir

From seven o'clock yesterday evening till this moment (except five hours) have I been finding out what I have written on the inclosed sheets. The Jack papers are both so bad, that it is truly the most disagreeable office in the world to discover the words first at various distances, & then fill up the impuncturable spaces by guesses in many parts. I am sorry there is nothing from America, & yet if D Franklin wrote to a Friend at Rotterdam, Green's second defeat, it must
