

A. N. to Lord North

Lord North is very right in supposing I should think Sir Thomas Egerton the proper person to recommend to the Wardenship of Manchester College vacated by the death of Doctor Deplae. He will therefore direct the proper instrument to be prepared appointing the Rev. Mr. Ashton to his preferment besides Sir Thomas Egerton's zealous attachment to my Government, I know the goodness of his private Character and that he would not recommend a Clergy man whose moral character could be in the least suspicious.

Lord Temple's letter is not couched with that temper which could incline a reconsideration of his request.
