I trouble your Majesty with the Inclosed warrants for your Royal Signature, as they are wanted.

I send your Majesty also two Letters I received last night from J^r Helyar, giving an account of the Death of Lord Seaforth, of the Arrival of part of his Regiment here, & of the Condition of it.

I understand that a great deal has pass'd between L^d North & the Lord Advocate through Mr Robinson, which, as I apprehend, Lord North has never communicated to your Majesty, nor Mr Robinson to me; The purport, as I am inform'd, was that Lord George must be dismissed before the Lord Advocate would consent to come into into the House of Commons, & I suspect that Mr Robinson has consented to give up Lord George in order to save Lord Sandwich; for I am now told that the Lord Advocate will be satisfied with one Human Sacrifice. This is the Expression that was made use of. The whole Transaction is very strange & humiliating.

The Chancellor call'd on me yesterday; The Conversation turn'd wholly on what is to pass in the House of Lords tomorrow.

My Election is not yet determin'd as far however as I can judge from Reports things bear rather a favourable Aspect.

From Your Majesty's Dutiful Subject
L. Robinson.
