Partes, Tenne II 928

The shortest and clearest one that I can devise of closing the Account of Secret Service Money with Lt. North, is to allow him to state the £3983-8-11. which he did not receive of the £20,000.
I gave him leave to take for the discharge of his Debts, which is ballanced by his paying an Article that never was stated to Me, and therefore for which I cannot stand indebted the £3250. to that worthy Man Mr. Bate, which I am with the remaining money in Lt. North's hands £712-13-4½. will give Lt. North a clear claim to a ballance in his favour of £20-15-6½. which I therefore enclose.
