

4720

E. of Salborne
May 6th 1792. at night
P. May 7th 1792. 10 p.m.

Sir

I should not have thought it necessary to intrude the Swallow upon your Majesty, if the Duke of Richmond and Lord Derby, the latter much more particularly, had not left the House, under an Idea that the presence of the Bill was lost by admitting the Amendment - The Words were mov'd by Lord Ashburton upon the suggestion both of the Friends and Enemy's of the Bill - I should have voted notwithstanding against it, if the genuine Sense of the House had not been with it, and the Majority contain'd the most independent

4720 (2)

the people, such as Lord Spencer, Lord el- Coventry, Lord Ravensworth, & all the Words Lawyers. The Duke of Grafton upon spoke for it, without any commu-nds- nication with me. I forbore speauld- king from management for the aint Duke of Richmond, and on ac-House- count of the triflingness of the Ma- Debate. I cannot conceive that so ndant immaterial an event can produce the least consequence, if the turn of Debates in the House of Commons & other circumstances did not give too much room to suspect Intended Confusion.

The Cabinet is to meet to morrow at eleven on the business of Ireland.
Lord Rockingham continues so much Indispos'd, that it's doubtful whether he can attend. I have the Honour to be with the highest Respect, Your Majesty's Dutyfull Subject and