

William Pitt to H.M.

Mr Pitt humbly begs leave to return the Draft of the Paper for the Lord Chancellor which Your Majesty was graciously pleased to transmit to Him on Sunday, and has observed with the greatest Satisfaction the Outlines of the Plan which Your Majesty has traced, and which on the best Consideration he can give to the very important Object to which they relate, appear to contain every Thing that can be wished.

with respect to that Part of the Paper which relates to the Fund for the Education of the Princeps, He takes the liberty of submitting that purpose is not by any allotment settled by the Commissioners for liquidating the Debts of the Prince of Wales, but by a separate Grant made by Your Majesty out of the Civil List. On this ground He has ventured humbly to suggest for your Majesty's Consideration an Alteration of that Paragraph. - He has also to entreat your Majesty's Indulgence for offering a few other Suggestions which are little more than verbal, and which appeared to him desirable in order to conform to your Majesty's gracious Intention of stating this Plan in the first Instance rather as an Outline Paper to further Consideration, than as an Arrangement finally fixed; and he has presumed (as the mode which he conceived would be least troublesome) to copy the Paper with the alterations thus suggested on a separate sheet.
