Wednesday Evening

My dear Lord

I inclose the Memorandum, and am just preparing to set out. This surely finishes the business. Whether, however, there be more discussion or not, I am always ready to repair to Town on the shortest intimation of His Majesty's pleasure: yet I will trust to you to feel for me that I must be desirous of a little rest.

What The Prince alluded to in the conversation was, a Paragraph respecting Mrs Fitzherbert in the Observer of Sunday last; as well as assertions of Lord Thurlow's Opinion against him. Those attacks should be checked if possible.

I have the Honor to be

M^{rs} Moira

The Lord Chancellor
