My D^r Children, Y^r have giv' me too much Joy to day, that I should omitt answering Y^r Letters. There are different seasons for lising Letters, some are agreeable for the Stile, others for the Turns, but those I prefer to all these are when they are full of good Sentiments; Y^r are so, in particular L^{dy} Anns; I have always wish'd Y^r would come to live reading, it is only by that one forms ones self, and one may's proper Remarks of Character; those Y^r make of Y^r Play, are exceeding Just, and if Y^r keep Y^r prudent Resolution, You'll be happy, and make the tenderest Father so too, who has the kindest Intention for Y^r Future happiness. Y^r Mama sends Y^r her blessing, and wee send kisses to the 3. little on's, which Y^r 3. eldest will distribute in our Nam's. Y^r hand my Y^r George grow's much better, and I am oblig'd for Y^r Compliment, to my Boy Edward. Pray God Y^r may grow in ev'ry Respect above me.

Good night my Y^r Children, do'nt expect us before near 11. a clock at night, therefore go to bed; my Compliments to M^{rs} Herbert, and Schraeder, and order Stoggett, and the 2. Grooms to be at the ^{at 10.30} ~~Stables~~ ^{at 10.30} ~~Stables~~ but at 9. a clock.

I keep Ernest here, for to morrow's Day, which I hope will not be troublesome to the Younger Gentleman.
