Sir,

As soon as I heard the Insolent message your Majesty had received from the Court of France, I hurried up to Town, to renew my offers of Service at so critical a moment; flattering myself that You must be convinced how earnestly I have ever wished to shew every kind of Dutiful Attachment to you.

Attention to the Profession I have entered into has always been the great object of my life; I was encourag'd in it by your Approbation, and your desire of my remaining in your Service, conveyed to me, through Lord Rochford. I wait with Impatience for your Majesty's Command,

Remaining

Sir your Dutiful Subject and Brother
William Henry
