The Duke of Grafton has the Honor to acquaint his Majesty that the Duke of Northumberland moved an Address to his Majesty of Thanks as also of Assurance of Support in suppressing the Riots. He can not presume to mention for certain whether any Motion will be made farther than what is intended by a Mr. Lawdick, who is to move that Mr. Wilkes be brought to the Bar.

The Duke of Grafton continues dead with the Head Ache, but this shall not prevent his paying his Duty tonight to his Majesty.
